Last night I was so tired
I laid down and asked myself
Why she left me alone
I could forget her, but this pain is too strong
I can't just rely
On anything other people say
They tell me to be happy,
But I've forgotten how that feeling is

Because I've lost you
Your breath, your smell, they're all around me
You know that I loved you,
So blind but you didn't appreciate it
After all I've lost you
Your breath, your smell, they're all around me
I can prove that I loved you,
So blind, but you didn't appreciate it

I can feel it in my heart,
Deep inside that you never love me,
But why did you play
With my life and my love, what was your game
I can't just keep waiting,
For your return as you've finished your stage
I've tried to restart it,
But it was too hard to make it real

Because I've lost you
Your breath, your smell, they're all around me
You know that I loved you,
So blind but you didn't appreciate it

I must go on without you
I have to rewrite the past,
But even if I do this,
There will always be,
A space, a fear, a pain

Because I've lost you
Your breath, your smell, they're all around me
You know that I loved you,

So blind but you didn' t appreciate it
After all I've lost you
Your breath, your smell, they' re all around me
I can proof that I loved you,
So blind, but you didn' t appreciate it

I may have lost you,
But I' ll go on
