Crocodile Tears by Taylor Duffy

Come now dry your crocodile tears,
I know you think there's someone here who cares
It's hard to talk with your foot so deep in my face
Let me move a rock and put you back in your place

Everybody says, she's not the girl I know
Everyone has said to let her go
No time to deal with all your fears
Keep on, crying all your crocodile tears
Crocodile tears

Oooh, a knife in the back should dull the pain
Give me time to get back on my feet again
You say yes, but you mean no

Make up your mind bitch
You move too goddamn slow

I tried to see what you were all about
And I found that you were someone I could do without

Everybody says, she's not the girl for me
Everyone has said, to set her free
Now the wait is gone and everything is clear
So come on now, cry your crocodile tears
Crocodile tears

You can analyze every move I make
All I do is gave,
And all you do is take
You can bitch into your golden years
So come on now, cry your crocodile tears
Crocodile tears, cry your crocodile tears
