I saw you praying,
on the doorstep of pain.
I saw you praying,
to a god you can't name.

Oh they said you were lovely,
but all I see is ugly, and I saw you fall down,
and not get up again.
I saw you fall down,
saw you fall down my friend.

I saw you walking,
down these sheltered blue halls.
Kicking and screaming,
only I heard your calls.

Oh they said you were crazy,
and I'd have to agree, and
You should have fallen,
should have fallen with me.
'Cause you know baby,
how I love company.

Cause you know baby,
how I love,
how I crave
how I love,
how I crave
OOoooooh.
Haaaaaaaaay.

You should have fallen,
should have fallen with me.
'Cause you know baby,
how I love company.
