

Cale Sampson f/ Memo, Nfact, Second Thought "Fate"

Visit "Fate" on MotoLyrics.com

[Intro: Memo] Yeah, okay Must have been fate man Yeah [Verse 1: Memo] Just across town there's a guy laying in a bed Who just had a sex with a waitress he just met While she's gone to the bathroom, he reminisces Off of a night that actually turned out alright More than usual he's lonely Used to staying home, mainly watching movies with his homeys But this evening was the night that his luck changed for him Out of boredom, he was out doing groceries Bumped into this girl in the candy aisle Asked her what's her name, girl laughed and smiled Now imagine her baby looked smashing Attractive, japanime type of passion Type of ass, you'd love to tap if you had the cash And if you're the mack even then you'd cum twice in her They had a nice dinner, hit the beach for some night swimming Then they hit the club for a dance and some light drinking After that they hit the crib spot so they could kick back Smoke some pot, take their clothes off [Chorus: Memo] Fate is a strange thing, put your self in the way of the world Fate is a strange thing, put your self in the way of the world Fate is a strange thing, put your self in the way of the world Fate is a strange thing, put your self in the way of the world [Verse 2: Second Thought] A young man stands at a microphone Mad skills with a pen so he writes his own Cold nights alone, when his lights is on He immerses himself in a frightening zone And that's when he feels it come When he's there with a snare and the perfect drum And that it all comes back you see 'Cuz for the last six months he's been practising He wanna crack the scene, gotta hit 'em with his best shot In the booth, one take like S-Dot Beat drops and he nails the shit Yeah he never would have failed at this So the track gets pressed, guess what comes next Time to put that shit to the test And so they play it on the radio The whole world goes nuts "Hey way to go!" [Bridge: Second Thought] It must have been fate Yo they really loved that track man Must have been fate [Chorus] [Verse 3: Cale Sampson] Downtown a single mom wishes Her luck turns around 'cuz her life just isn't Moving forward, stuck doing dishes With only one income isn't what she envisioned Different men come and go but they don't give her The love she deserves, she knows they won't deliver Every relationship she's been hurt But it's only built strength deep within her She needs it, all her family's gone Now all she has is a little boy to keep her strong Always be there for him, sacrificing The rest of her life just to support them Truth is, she can barely afford to Even though she probably works more than you Her fate, ain't to follow in the footsteps Of the family tree or end up depressed No way, she's gonna break the pattern Best day of her life was the day she had him And one day she's gonna own a home And he'll be the first one to graduate she knows [Chorus] [Verse 4: Nfact} When I ask why, too blind to see Why I can't get by and it's probably me Content with the pain entirely Wanna blame it all on society 'Cuz I chill all day on the corner drunk With my crew in the same old corner funk Say we gonna get rich, how we gonna stunt Chop blaze, shop viles, be a baller y'all Now twenty years passed with the same old fib The same old crib, complaining about the same old shit Still dreaming how to change all this Brother watch years go by and think of all the things you miss (c'mon) [Outro: Nfact] Fate is a strange thing, put your self in the way of the world Fate is a strange thing, put your self in the way of the world

Visit Cale Sampson f/ Memo, Nfact, Second Thought page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.