(Vic McAlpin - Roy Drusky)

You didn't love me long until the thrill was gone Then another made me your old used to be How long can her love last when a new wears oh so fast There'll always be another then another and another
just like me.

Just like me she'll understand the sorrow
Of loving you today and losing you tomorrow
I'd warned her but she called it jealousy
So let her be another then another and another just like me.

--- Instrumental ---

Now you'll go anywhere for a brand new love affair
Somebody new who thrills you instantly
When the thrill has ceased to chill and from the past I know it will
There'll always be another then another and another
just like me.

Just like me she'll understand the sorrow
Of loving you today and losing you tomorrow
I'd warned her but she called it jealousy
So let her be another then another and another just like me...
