"Choose Between"

Why wave good-bye when it's just the beginning? why start to cry when you know there's nothing wrong? why even try when it's not worth the effort? just walk on by and leave me standing all alone. and then it was so easy. to choose between you and me. I felt so uneasy. choosing between you and me. why take the time, when your time is such a waste? so full of pride yet there's no humility. why take your word, when a word is all you've got? why stay unheard when I want to scream and shout? and then it was so easy. to choose between you and me. I felt so uneasy. choosing between you and me. why wave good-bye when it's just the beginning? why start to cry when you know there's nothing wrong? why even try when it's not worth the effort? just walk on by and leave me standing all alone. and then it was so easy. to choose between you and me. I felt so uneasy. choosing between you and me.
