10, 000 things to finish before six o' clock I'm in panic as the time ticks away stress ebbs at every angle and I'm running out of strength the wheel never slows down another deadline to meet back up and put your nose to the grindstone I really need some time to sleep days turn to weeks, weeks into months ask me what day it is and I look confused say I'm moving forward but I seem so far behind I really need to catch some z's the wheel never slows down another deadline to meet back up and put your nose to the grindstone I really need some time to sleep slumbertime again, it's time to dream again take time for me again the wheel never slows down another deadline to meet back up and put your nose to the grindstone I really need some time to sleep
