I'm growing up life is passing by so fast
The world is so much different from back then
And now I know what they all kept telling me
Was only to protect my own well-being

My own well-being!

I'll take my time to figure out exactly what it was about
So put some faith into me now
I'll listen to all that you say and soak it in so many ways
So you will know that I can change

I'm looking back on all I ever did
'Cause now it makes me, makes me feel like shit
And now I'll try to remember what I said
Erase it all so I can f*cking forget

I'll take my time to figure out exactly what it was about
So put some faith into me now
I'll listen to all that you say and soak it in so many ways
So you will know that I can change

Put faith in me!

I'll take my time to figure out exactly what it was about
So put some faith into me now
I'll listen to all that you say and soak it in so many ways
So you will know that I can change

I swear you never will regret give me a chance
And just forget about my past and what it meant
I'll place my bet and prove to you there's nothing more
That you can do because now I am someone new

So put some faith into me now
Faith into me now!
