Yes, you and me are just the same, we let the creatures
in.

He shakes his mane, he squats and sheds off all his human skin, I like to see you curl your claws.

Pale pupils widening, you cock your head, you crouch
and she'd off all your human skin.

Did you think I'd be happy to be what you said? Until you see the body, never count me dead.

And I would not believe it, even then. A man like that is not a man.

He paints his picture on my eyes, and steals my blood
by force.

Sweep me up into the sky and lose me in a forest.

Did you think I'd be happy to be what you said? Until
you see the body, never count me dead.

And I would not believe it, even then. A man like that is not a man.

I ground my teeth for you all night, chasing after sleep.
I lay and listened for your breath, as if you were beside me.

Did you think I'd be happy to be what you said? Until
you see the body, never count me dead.

And I would not believe it, even then. A man like that is not a man.
