I'm your only friend, I'm your only friend. Who will ever know?

You shyly stay wrapped in pretty sheets, and string your teeth for pearls.

It's never winter in the house, and you are never going out again.

It's never winter in the house, and you are never going out again.

I'm your only friend, I'm your only friend you will ever have.

So you'll shyly stay wrapped in pretty sheets, and string your teeth for pearls.

It's never winter in the house, and you are never going out again.

It's never winter in the house, and you are never going out again.

They will never see you, I will have to keep you-flattered and afraid.

It's unheard of glamour, It's unheard of glamour, and we won't ever change.

It's never winter in the house, and you are never going out again.

It's never winter in the house, and you are never going out again.
