Unbalanced, you walk a wired line
And when you fall without a net this time
I'll be there, I'll stand with folded arms
Who saves you now, his smile has lost it's charm

In light of the light it's my darkest day
In light of the day, I still feel the same
In light of the night when I'll call to you
Well I was a fool

Every little lie you're lying to me
Every little lie is why you phone me
Every little lie you told me
Every little why you own me
Every little lie you're lying to me
Every little lie is why you phone me
Every little lie you told me
Every little why you own me

Some healing is what I hope for now
Dumb feelings are beyond what I'll allow

In light of the light it's my darkest day
In light of the day I still feel the same
In light of the night when I'll call to you
Well I was a fool

Every little lie you're lying to me
Every little lie is why you phone me
Every little lie you told me
Every little why you own me
Every little lie you're lying to me
Every little lie is why you phone me
Every little lie you told me
Every little why you own me

Another day and I was wrong
Another night I still sit alone
And as the time that I walk away
To another day

Every little lie you're lying to me
Every little lie is why you phone me
Every little lie you told me
Every little why you own me
Every little lie you're lying to me
Every little lie is why you phone me
Every little lie you told me
Every little why you own me

Every little lie you're lying to me
Every little lie is why you phone me
Every little lie you told me
Every little why you own me
Every little lie you're lying to me
Every little lie is why you phone me
Every little lie you told me
Every little why you own me

In the light of the day
Well I was a fool
In the light of the day
Well I was a fool
In the light of the day
