I think I lost my soul, just like you said I would,
when I lost you.

I feel cold as a stone, yes I feel numb and cold,
since I've lost you.

But when I close my eyes, I see your shining star, guiding me through.

I would so wanna fly, spread my wings in the sky,
underneath you.

I'm high, so high

I just walk on the line, don't know with who or why,
but I need it.

With your soul next to mine, I'm a ghost not a man,
do you feel it?

And the tears in my eyes, desperately ran dry,
I can't hide it.

Will to live, I can try, broken on the inside,
let this boat sink.

I'm high, so high

If I don't blame myself for this painful descent, tell me who do you think I could blame?

If I don't take the chance, if I can't live again,
do you think someone would even care?

'Cause I'm so scared, I'm tied,
you're the needle running through my veins.

Just tell me how I can survive.

I'm high, so high

Just tell me how I can survive.

I'm high, so high
