Staring deep into your eyes, they're empty. This should come as no surprise. Faced with circumstances that you just can't fix and the lure of afterglow. Cheer up baby, this was doomed right from the start, and if you can't see that than this is all your fault. I can't be your crutch anymore. The weight i bear is far too much, Im leaving. I wish you all of the best and im sorry, but your pain is outweighed by my need. Im on my own and though i know you're waiting, this is where i know i need to be right now, I know i need this right now.
