Dark clouds overhead
Made a home over our bed
I mistook them for mystery
Like the love stories I'd read
And wouldn't you know
It turned out to be a tragedy
I find myself in the eye
Of fierce cyclone
So many ways to try
To rationalize
Why I close my eyes
To every single lie
You got lost
Somewhere in the grey
I don't know why
You chose to evade
You should leave me behind
But what if it's true
What they say
It's better to end our love
Then throw it away
Looking back at that time
My heart and soul
Where out of rhyme
I mistook the loss for love
But it was you
I dreamed of at night
And oh what a fool I was
Not to love you enough
Could've been up front
When the rowing got rough
So many ways to try
To rationalize
Why I close my eyes
To every single lie
I was lost
Somewhere in the grey
I don't know why
I chose to evade
You should leave me behind
But what if it's true

What they say
It's better to end our love
Then to throw it away
Oh oh oh oh oh oh
I was lost
Somewhere in the grey
I don't know why
I chose to evade
You should leave me behind
But what If it's true
What they say
It's better to end our love
Than throw it away
