I thought that you would always be standing by my side
The brother that I knew so well but now that thought has died

You once stood proud, Your head held high and steel toes on your feet

Now your fucking pushing drugs to kids on the street

Your running down a dead end street - how far can you run?

You know that now there's no retreat - All's been said and done

Have you forgot the times we had, The drinks and all the fights

Meeting up with all the boys and all the crazy nights I guess it don't mean shit to you cause now you've turned your back

Your more concerned with railing lines and cooking up your crack
