Now take a look to yourself
And tell me what you have become
A fearful sculpture modeled
With clay of conventionalism
Dragging the chains of the money
Carrying the weight of the cross
Moral speeches concealing modern slavery

Ethics designed for control
Destroying mankind sovereign
Fight for the glory of the power
Die in the name of god

Disposed to cross an ocean of bones
To hate they all have made of us

I blame politics
I blame religion
I blame society
I blame these perversions

(These are the three) betrayals toward modern man
Our final judgement has begun
