And it makes me happy
To see you suffering
I was next to nothing
Now I'm further than you've been
All the wasted laughter
And shameless pretending
I can't quite figure out
What I'm really after

When Summer over
I'll know who my real friends are
I'll quit my day job
And my in-expensive car
Everyday so we can
Lose track of who I am
Take the darkest highway
Where the light burns at the end

Afraid to ask and find the answer
I've had a blast but now I'm sober

Oh how I wish you could take me back
Said maybe I could go back
And start all over
Oh how I wish I could turn back time

Afraid to ask and find the answer
I've had a blast but now I'm sober
