

The Legacy

"Demons"

Visit "Demons" on MotoLyrics.com

Throw it back again, now you see you're against the wall.
Torn with indifference, between the ones who have lost it all.
Someday you'll piece this together, and maybe then you'd redeem this soul.
There's nothing left here for you to rape, or take for your own.

Because you couldn't seem, You couldn't seem to, to speak the truth.
I'll never be the one to save you, I'll never be the one, Until you admit that you were wrong.

If it means I'll get to watch you burn,
I'll be the one who'll light the first match.
If it means I'll get to watch you burn,
I'll be the one who lights that match

No one will hear you, your own demons will rip you apart
No one will hear you, your own demons will rip you apart

There's no hope left for you now, Your living in the shadows of hell.

Because you couldn't seem, You couldn't seem to, to speak the truth.
I'll never be the one to save you, I'll never be the one, Until you admit that you were wrong.

You cried out for redemption but even you couldn't save yourself.
You cried out for redemption but even you couldn't save yourself.

Visit The Legacy page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.

