its like im always gone and she wait for me all night long said im at work so don't call my phone but really some groupies all im doing and this girl try hard to make sure that we both work but in my head there is no we just me and with that said we gone hurt but in my heart under that stone there's still a little room for you to come back home and i don't know why but she on the porch and i cant find the courage to open that door what im trying to say is that i love you but just haven't learned the right way to love i almost shed a tear when she asked me what i thought about us

she said my love aint right im always gone and when she come home late she always gone she think my chest aint right and we both know that i got too much pride to let that show i know my love aint right what the fuck do i do don't wanna be stuck in this room thinking of how to love you
and that's alright imma learn how to love her and its on my life because my love aint right mekeia
