"The Last Song"

This song, your song is the last song I'll ever do
For you about me 'cause your games are through
I won't think, I won't breathe, I won't even close my eyes to dream
I'd starve you right out of me if I knew what else to eat

You said this would be, the last time you'd ever hurt me
You said this would be the last time I'd ever cry
Last time I didn't know, how was I supposed to know
This time I found it, I know how to scream

I don't owe you anything
I'm not a part of you
You can't take away everything
I'm not a part of you

This song, your song is the only song I'll ever do
About you, for me, so I can stay alive
I can't think, I can't breathe, I can't even close my eyes
to dream
I need you out of me before I turn into you

I can't stand to look at you, until you remember everything
I can't be what you are, what you think, what you do
I know what it means when I look at you, I look at you
And this time I'm looking and telling on you

I don't owe you anything
I'm not a part of you
Will time tell me anything?
I am coming after you

Can you feel me coming after you?
Can you feel I'm right behind you?
Can you hear me telling on you?
Can you feel me tearing at you?

This song, your song is the last song I'll ever do
For you about me 'cause your games are through
This time I don't feel bad for all these things I've said
And this time I want them to know what you did
