You can't find another way out.
All I see are dead ends that lead to no where.
Your disposition of denial is what's keeping you in and it's locking you out.

Hey are you listening to the world it's calling your name.
You're so conceited. You put yourself above all.
We won't play your games.

This is what we were made for.
Please don't ever take that away.

It's hard to see, but everything is gone.
It's hard to breathe, but I can't hold my tongue.

Living in a dream is so much harder when you can't see.
Living in a lie is so much harder when you have to wake up in real life.

Follow your footsteps.
It's what I've always told you but you never listen.
Follow your footsteps.
But you never will because,
You cannot see the world when you think that you're on top of it.
Why won't you look down and see the reality?
We will not look up at you and pretend you're above us all.
You're not a prodigy. You're not a prodigy.

This is all that you have ever wanted to be.
You'll never get anywhere acting like this.
Change your ways, or wither and die.
Maybe some day you'll come to realize.
Realism does not exist.
Hey are you listening.
We're not playing your game.

It's hard to see, but everything is gone.

It's hard to breathe, but I can't hold my tongue.

Living in a dream is so much harder when you can't see.

Living in a lie is so much harder when you have to wake up in real life.

Conceited.

You're so conceited.

We won't fall for your games again.

They're not worth watching when we know you won't win.

I know you'll lose. I know you'll lose.

We're not playing your game.
