Simmer down
The summer's gone
The wind is breezy
The water's cold

Get outside
Meet me there
Get your jacket and come

Well here am I
This is me
Autumn fades over
Completely

No other word
As good as I
Catch a fever and die

So only I can recall my name

I alone must start again
I alone can keep me sane
I alone must start again
I alone

Number one
Number three Number two
Follow me

Span the streets
To find the shore
I keep shrinking
When you grow

A desert rose
A lonely newt
Shorter distance
Longer route

Miles on end

Before the end
Better start again

If only I could recall my name

I alone must start again
I alone can keep me sane
I alone must start again
I alone

Learn to walk
To be afraid
To build it up
And start again
Stick it to them
Stick to all
Forget the details
Keep the score
Silent backwards
Follow through
Towards the distance
Into the blue
Lines upon
A face upon
The one who starts again

I alone must start again
I alone can keep me sane
I alone must start again
I alone
