"Stay Awake"

When we move slow, it's vibrant and pretty like that:
All patient, but indecisive at best.
Still singing out loud until you wake.
Keep you watching. Keep you breathing.
Such clever mistakes can lead to something
Or someone worth that wait.

But stay awake, there's no silence this time
Shadows strapped to the pavement silhouette lays divine.
Delicate and so removed intricately defined, such as light.

But I'm bruised, broken and bleeding like that.
Are you watching? Saviour your absence has been noted.
Are you watching? Because we are waiting.

And as I reign never question if I... If I'm sick I am not sick.
Dependent, selfish, and vicious like him.
Drink myself sick and then I've lost it.
Recluse there is still no badge of pride to wear.
Just lose yourself in the melody that screams on in your head.

But stay awake, there's no silence this time
Shadows strapped to the pavement silhouette lays
divine.
Delicate and so removed intricately defined, such as
light.

Cause in my head, I have lost it.
And in your head, we're all asleep again (you have lost it)

But stay awake, there's no silence this time
Shadows strapped to the pavement silhouette lays
divine.
Delicate and so removed intricately defined, such as
light.
