

The Robot's Guide To Living

"The Salazar Fight Song"

Visit "The Salazar Fight Song" on MotoLyrics.com

The pretty lights were shining in this hotel room of mine
Ignorant to the fact this was goodbye
Machines help you breathe
Post static trauma vacancy
Air was so demanded it escaped me
Have you escaped me?

I found your comas a bit redundant
I refuse to sleep forever
Embraced by cancer I am dependent

I need a break from all the streetlights
A rest from all the embers
When the empire falls Utah is where you'll find me
I gave the fireflies the night off to catch up with their families
Undercover, under fire I am singing on, and on
No

I found your comas a bit redundant
I refuse to sleep forever
Embraced by cancer I am dependent

For they ask "who will save your ship?"

Down south you fell in love with the chemicals
Passed out before the kiss at the hospital
Fell at ease when you said
"carry me home now, carry me home now!"

Visit The Robot's Guide To Living page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.