Desperate times need desperate lies
And true control needs willing minds
Because your useless
If you can't be kept in line

And in their guts the gears still turn
Easy to choose a side
When you believe everything you're told

Fuck what you know
You're not alright
You've been lied to every day of your whole life
It's just the ones you trust who'll always let you down

Fuck what you know
You're not alright
What you're taught conflicts with what you know is right
Question the answers and the truth might yet be found

Fuck what you know

So please do not avert your eyes
Trust your TV it's always right
We'll cull the programs that
Infect your fragile mind

But in our hearts the fear still burns
Easy to choose a side

Fuck what you know
You're not alright
You've been lied to every day of your whole life
It's just the ones you trust who'll always let you down
