shutting my eyes i can see what is right in front of me a twisting calidoscope in my hand off all the things we left unsaid if i could make the world go away if i could make it all disappear just as memories relapse, incased in a mirror glass the leaves are falling times have changed repetitions are rearranged they rearranged

if i could make the world go away
if i could make it all disappear
make it all
make it all, disappear

now its time to fade away
