Anderson John
"I Used To Love Her"

How many years will this clock have to tick
How many tears have to fall
How many nights must I lie here and wonder
If I'm gonna survive this at all
Waking up and reaching out for no one
Is the hardest part to get over
I can't wait for the day when I can finally say
I used to love her
I'm gettin' better at walkin' the floor
I'm wearin' holes in my shoes
I keep on looking for something I've lost
As if I had something to lose
Calling out her name while nobody answers
Is the hardest part to get over
I can't wait for the day when I can finally say
I used to love her
This endless wall of heartache and pain
I can't seem to get over
I can't wait for the day when I can finally say
I used to love her
I can't wait for the day when I can finally say
I used to love her.