There was never time to stop because everything was just about to start
yeah, I didn't realise that it could be possible.
That In a minute I would loose my virgin heart.
Hey hey hey.
She was right in front of me and I was suddenly
depreived of human speech.
Yeah, I was paralyzed.
It was in my backyard man, she was dressed like she was on her privat
beach.
Hey hey hey

She was like fuel for young desire, desire to explore,
like gasoline on fire,
she was the woman next door.
A human incarnation of heavenly design.
God bless imagination, she will always be mine.

She was in another league, I wasn't old enough to call myself a man.
That didn't bother me.
We were never meant to be, but I was blind away too
young to understand.
Aha.
Didn't even know her real name, but my world would never be the same,
was completely in a hase from the day I saw her face

She was like fuel for young desire, desire to explore,
like gasoline on fire,
she was the woman next door.
A human incarnation of heavenly design.
God bless imagination, she will always be mine.

There where times I thought I had no bothers, that my very self would fall apart.
Had to follow all the senseless orders, from the madman in my heart.
Couldn't possible afford her, still I played the lovers

part.

She was like fuel for young desire, desire to explore,
like gasoline on fire,
she was the woman next door.
A human incarnation of heavenly design.
God bless imagination, she will always be mine.

She was like fuel for young desire, desire to explore,
like gasoline on fire,
she was the woman next door.
A human incarnation of heavenly design.
God bless imagination, she will always be mine.
