Woah oh oh, woah oh oh... well the last time that I saw you was in the summer of last year... on a blanket, under blue skies, and the hot sun burned my skin. but it felt just right and so we jumped right in, to that clear lake... the cold water felt good as we sank. now we all have these dreams... the kind that just won't leave, of people we've yet to be, of places we've never seen. and as we grow up... little by little, day by day. there's those that say 'give it up... yeah give it away.' but when you held my hand and told me to stay... you said follow your heart, it's the only way, and I know you'll get sad with all this war and decay, but please for me, no don't be afraid. they'll say go have your fun... it's just a waste of time, but I feel so free... like a child... yeah so fucking wild! woah oh oh. woah oh oh!
