"Stillness Sickness"

Close your eyes and know we have a home with our friends, on these open roads. When we hold each other while we sleep. We create our own destiny. So while I'm gone, with you my heart is home. And I've seen all those postcard views, but the sunset's always in my rearview, and I'm a leaving boy... Soon I'll leave you, but know I'll be back soon. Understand that god don't exist -- No Hell, no reason for regret. So let's live exactly how we want before this sickness of stillness eats us up. And don't be afraid, together we are saved. And I've seen all those postcard views, but the sunset's always in my rearview, and I'm a leaving boy... Soon I'll leave you, but know I'll be back soon.
