"Wrecking Ball"

tear down the bearing wall put up a picture window something to look through at the bastard colors burnt sienna
put down the wrecking ball who has a friend who needs one?
i've got a way to get to work in almost any city doesn't matter where take a needle i won't be there privileges forsaken there liberties i've taken take me nowhere
don't let a childhood linger they'll take the world apart and break my baby brother's finger so he can't shake my hand guard the dead against my legacy and lack the wound no more run from nowhere, nowhere follows you burn down the house

make sure the family is inside nothing more to tether you also no one there to catch you crying nothing but my famous pillow and my father's rocking chair (get a sliver when you sit there) every mess i make i make a run from nowhere nowhere follows you
