There's a deep girl in the corner shop
There's a deep girl in the corner shop
selling sugar for money in the dead of the night
Selling sugar for money in the dead of the night
and her soul's in the sugar, and her heart's in the mud
And her soul's in the sugar, and her heart's in the mud
and she crying with a stranger for someone to love
And she crying with a stranger for someone to love and she sings
And she sings

Look at me, see me
Look at me, see me
Look at me, save me
Look at me, save me
Free me, find me
Free me, find me
'Cause if there's somebody for someone
'cause if there's somebody for someone
Yeah, look at me
Yeah, look at me
Somebody for someone...
Somebody for someone...

There's a deep boy at the corner shop
There's a deep boy at the corner shop
watching sugar sell for money to the dead at night
Watching sugar sell for money to the dead at night
and he sees her; an angel in the cruelest of worlds
And he sees her; an angel in the cruelest of worlds
hiding in the darkness, screaming out for love Hiding in the darkness, screaming out for love
and he sings
And he sings

(Somebody's gonna make it right, somebody's gonna
make it right)
(somebody's gonna make it right, somebody's gonna
make it right)
Look at me, see me
Look at me, see me

(Somebody's gonna make it right, somebody's gonna
make it right)
(somebody's gonna make it right, somebody's gonna
make it right)
Look for me, save me
Look for me, save me
(Somebody's gonna make it right, somebody's gonna
make it right)
(somebody's gonna make it right, somebody's gonna
make it right)
Free me, find me
Free me, find me
(Somebody's gonna make it right, somebody's gonna
make it right)
(somebody's gonna make it right, somebody's gonna
make it right)
'Cause if there's somebody for someone
'cause if there's somebody for someone
Yeah, look at me
Yeah, look at me
