

Daniel Luttrell

"Meatball Sandwich Serenade"

Visit "Meatball Sandwich Serenade" on MotoLyrics.com

Standing in line at the sandwich shop
My eyes browse through the menu then came to a stop
I licked my lips and gave my tummy a rub
Something caught my eye, it was a meatball sub
Meatballs, mozzarella, pepperoni
Swiss cheese, yes please, all served on a hoagie
The cashier asked how I'd be taking this treat
One for here, one to go, and make them both on wheat
I said wait, this should be more italiano thake these back and add some romano
It felt like Burger King cuz I had it my way
But I was eating fresh cuz I was really at Subway
All that sauce, all that cheese
All those meatballs, still I'm not obese
I'd be the happiest Italian guy, if I had meatball sandwiches stacked to the sky
Scarf some down and let the music fade
It's the meatball sandwich serenade

Visit Daniel Luttrell page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.