The politicians have a tight hold, they learned a trick from kings
To let the people fight amongst themselves to hide their negligence
But something tells me that the end is coming sooner than we all know, I'd put a bet on it While the people fight amongst themselves it's all coming back, it's all coming back, it's all coming back

The government has got a tight hold, a bunch of crooks and thieves
They let the people steal amongst themselves while they own everything But in the end I know the people all will bring this to a standstill, I'd put a bet on it While the people steal amongst themselves it's all coming back, it's all coming back, it's all coming back

We the people were forced to sign An execution of human rights Indoctrination is what was meant Infuse a class war to keep relations strained

Given the chance, we would shine
We would shine
We would shine
We would shine

Given the chance, we would shine
We would shine
Given the chance, we would shine
