I was getting lost in a pile
Trying to find my way down South
I was burning like a witch in a fire
By a son I used to know so well...
When I was young.

Caught you cuttin' up on a corner
You were grinning like something else
A smile I hadn't seen in ages
In a town I used to know so well
When I was young

It's all we have to do in time,
Pay them what they want,
Give them what they like,
It's all we have to do, in time.

I was getting lost in a
Trying to find my way down south
I was burning like a witch in a fire
By a son I used to know so well
But the water came and the river swelled
And we lost our hold as the river filled,
Now we're all alone, on the other side
As the water wept, and the people cried

It's all we have to do in time
Pay them what they want,
Give them what they like
It's all we have to do, in time.
