You'd say "I'd watch you sleep for days" but I still need you here when I'm wide awake.

I hear you calling my name, but see you running out.

I miss the days when we first met and I love the way you'd kiss my head and tell me you'd be waiting

I'm still calling your name in an empty house and time is running out.

We are abandoned but at least we're taught to behave.
(He can change.)

We are abandoned, left to die or be born again. (He speaks in chains.)

Give me the strength to love again because I'm so tired of losing it when I have the chance.

Guess I'll lay my head back down...
