Yell curtain call. See through it all and keep an eye on your actors and their insurrection.

Hey, retain your atmosphere or you'll lose it all again;
throwing your skill away again.

Director calls on his crew to make sure his cast improves but the worst part here is itself the crew.
I've seen these halls in the pale Winter colors only grown from dreams in my head. Yet credits roll through a scene from the Summer built off a stage from my death.

Hey, get your mind out of the air! We can get it back, have it all until the end.

So hey, retain your atmosphere, then you'll lose it all again
