I feel your fingers reaching out to try and touch me don't you know that you already have the space between us fades away and you become me we share in this, if nothing else in this moment we are one the world around us comes undone no amount of distance could ever separate our minds

in this moment we are one

You see the sweat roll down my face I know you feel it we're sharing all our hopes and fears I see your hands curl into fists I know you're with me nothing can harm us while we're here

I feel the razor on your wrist you know it hurts me if only you could just hang on The fact that you and I exist Completes a circle
It will be broken when you're gone we have so little time to make this magic come to life and when we're gone this is all we leave behind
