We had it wrong, but we got it right
When we met in a different life
Where nobody knows our name
And there is nothing left to explain
And there is nothing left to explain

And when your heart is tearing out
I'd stitch it right back for you
And you know, when our feelings are breaking down
It will always be me and you

You say words that take over my mind
When I was standing on the blind side
When I scream this isn't for help
When I scream this isn't for help
When I scream this isn't for help

And when your heart is tearing out
I'd stitch it right back for you
And you know, when our feelings are breaking down
It will always be me and you

So we wait until we can meet again
So we wait until the bitter end
And so it goes on, lost words and broken minds
And so it goes on until our brand new life

So we will wait
We will wait
We will wait
We will wait
