Fate would have it that she goes,
She takes a breath to talk,
Rain beats on the windows,
Can't move her feet to walk.

A shining light,
It shines so bright.

She takes her golden cross and says,
Time to pass away.
She looks heavenwards to pray,
To reach a better world today.

A shining light,
It shines so bright.

Sick and tired of it,
Cancer blows her mind,
You've got to answer for that,
Cause you've got it, blind.

A shining light,
It shines so bright.
