What is your pleasure sir.
What is your pleasure.

My father doesn't believe in fairy tales either.

The mind is a labyrinth ladies and gentleman
A puzzle
For the powers of the brain are clearly visible
It's ways deceptively apparent
It's destination so unknown
It's secrets still secrets
Now, if we are honest, it is the lure of the labyrinth that draws us to our chosen field.
To unlock those secrets.
Others that have been here before us have left us signs
but we, as explorers of the mind, must devote our lives and energies to going further.
To trail the unexplored corridors in the hope of finding ultimately, the final solution.
We have to see for we have to know
