The first time I saw you I knew I was falling too fast
You reassured me that what we were feeling would last
So I held you close in my arms
Then I surrendered my heart

Just like a storybook romance you played me so well
And the more I believed you, the harder I fell
Something was missing inside
And when I opened my eyes

Where were you?
Where was I?
When our world started crumbling I searched for a reason why
I looked deep in my heart
Trying to find

I can remember the passion that burned in your eyes
I can't bear that another feels that passion tonight
While I sit alone in the dark
My life is falling apart

Where were you?
Where was I?
When our world started crumbling I searched for a reason why
I looked deep in my heart
Trying to find
A reason you'd take all my love and leave me behind

How can you just walk away, was it all just a game for you?
And could I be such a fool, giving all my love to you
Still I sit alone in the dark
My life is falling apart - over you....

Where were you?
Where was I?
When our world started crumbling I searched for a reason why

I looked deep in my heart
Trying to find
A reason you'd take all my love and leave me behind...
Well, I can remember the passion that burned in your eyes
Where were you...?
