Let's just pretend for a second that nothing's wrong
And we've grabbed horizons by the throat and moved along
Bypass everything that dragged us out into the lights
And while you're around here's that kiss goodnight

Slow dance in the dark for old time's sake
While we leave death in her own wake

Crawling home with the headlights on
We scrape the skin from bone and disregard
The city is our guide

Crawling home with the headlights on
We scrape the skin from bone and disregard
The city is our guide

Here is my voice of retrieval that brings me back
To the greatest stance I had before weight slowed it down
And took away the pace I had with no apologies
If I'm still down help me get off my damn knees

Slow dance in the dark for old time's sake
While we leave death in her own wake

Crawling home with the headlights on
We scrape the skin from bone and disregard
The city is our guide

Crawling home with the headlights on
We scrape the skin from bone and disregard
The city is our guide, all the way home, our guide home

And how it used to be, slowing down life within me
And how it used to be, slowing down life within me
Avenge your thoughts, reclaim
Avenge your life, reclaim

Slow dance in the dark for old time's sake
While we leave death in her own wake

Crawling home with the headlights on
We scrape the skin from bone and disregard
The city is our guide

Crawling home with the headlights on
We scrape the skin from bone and disregard

All the way home, the city is our guide
We scrape the skin from bone and disregard
Disregard

All the way home, the city is our guide
We scrape the skin from bone and disregard
The city is our guide
