Dishonesty breeds like poison in an unhealed wound

Multiply tell a little lie
To pull the wool
Over god's little eye

Before he makes up his mind

And that wouldn't do

Life is one long Play For Today

The one that uses all the four-letter words

The one that everybody pretends
They've never never heard
Oh yeah
And it gets in my skin
And I find myself fitting a form
That is worn like a badge on a blazer at school

Tear it off rip it up

Stick your 2 fingers up at the world
And the lying little worms
That would take you for a fool

For your life has to be this way

And you can't say this
And you can't watch that

It'll darken your mind little child -
A moral straightjacket to stop you running completely wild
Oh yeah
And it's nice when being yourself behind a locked door
Talk in whispers when you're scared out of your mind
By the law
Who leave no bruises but the ones in your heart
And they're the ones that really hurt

Yeaaahhh

The debate of the day, win a long holiday

You at home can decide what would be the best way to kill

The best way to kill

And you don't stand a chance in hell

But you go down fighting to the sound of the bell

Losers all in the eyes of the men with the pens

But winners all in the end

The debate of the day, win a long holiday

You at home can decide what would be the best way to
kill

The best way to kill

And you don't stand a chance in hell

But you go down fighting to the sound of the bell

Losers all in the eyes of the men with the pens

But winners all in the end

(Before he makes up his mind)

Winners all in the end
