I've been away and suddenly you're a poet musing my return what I did while I was gone is none of your concern you can write that I have changed from how I was back then just don't think that you could ever cry to me again you can add this to your growing list of heartfelt disappointment worn like charms around your wrist you're taking pictures every time I turn away cutting pasting and making fun of everything I say you can tell the whole wide world I don't know anything just remember that everything I say I might not mean

and it's so sad if I was all you had that wasn't how I planned it it doesn't help you to demand it if it's not there

of heartfelt disappointment worn
