"Over"

watching the insects devour the last of the summer flowers listening to the same old thing but nothing is the same watching the only thing I ever really wanted slip away feeling the heat, I'm suffocating well aware that no one's waiting here or there or in between desperately holding onto what I think I need everything's over

you say nothing could be wrong
but I know things don't take this long if they're okay
nothing's okay

wasted all my time again today I'll never amount to anything if I go on this way watching the ocean take back every wish I make throwing sand back to the sea watching the sun go down and wishing that the waves would take back me

everything's over

if they're okay
nothing's okay
nothing's okay
