Time to Move
by Crosby Loggins

I'm bouncing off the walls tonight
Junk in heart, sunken highs it's 3 A.M.
I'm tangled up over you
Lying on a burning bed
I think too much, it hurts my head
But there's a light that's shining through

I left you lonely If I could only have a chance to prove
I could love you for who you are
Do you feel you're giving something but gettin' nothing
I made you wait for long enough
Come on it's time to move

I've had time enough to know
Changed my mind and I can show you
That i'll be true if you could just take me back
I'm not about to give up yet
If there's a chance I won't quit
I'll do what it takes to get through to you

I left you lonely If I could only have a chance to prove That I could love you for who you are
Do you feel you're giving something but gettin' nothing
I made you wait for long enough
So come on it's time to move
Come on it's time to move

Bouncing off the walls again
A different light is pouring in now
I can see I'll never be the way I was when I found you

I left you lonely If I could only
have a chance to prove
I could love you for who you are
Do you feel you're giving something but gettin' nothing
I'd like to try to make it alright to you

Left you lonely If I could only
have a chance to prove
I could love you for who you are
Do you feel you're giving something but getting nothing
I made you wait for long enough
So come on it's time to move
