In your head
Saw you in a different light for a moment
Haven't seen that side of you for a while
Louder than a speeding train were your feelings
Colder than the autumn rain was your every word

Crawl down from your fences
Lose yourself in bitterness I'm easy to blame

So to settle the score you're letting me bleed
You're taking your pain out on me
Was it something I did or something I said
Or maybe it's all in your head

Now pardon me if I appear slightly nervous
Well you replace the butterflies with razorblades
You're louder than a speeding train
Colder than the autumn rain
I'm trying not to turn away but I can hardly breath

And to settle the score you're letting me bleed
You're taking your pain out on me
Was it something I did or something I said
Or maybe it's all in your head

Do you want to talk about it?
Do you want to laugh about it?
Do you want to scream about it?
I do, I do

And to settle the score you're letting me bleed
You're taking your pain out on me
Was it something I did or something I said
Was it something I did or something I said
Or maybe it's all in your head
