When you have those times in your life
And you have no one to rely on Make the best of the life you already have Time will cure all of the struggles

It's alright, just as long as it's the first time
It's alright, just as long as it's the first time

When you have been through all of the hard times in your life
Make the best of what you can possibly be Through time all of the hard times will heal
Stay true to yourself and always be real

It's alright, just as long as it's the first time
It's alright, just as long as it's the first time

Just remember all that you've been through Put the past behind and move forward ahead
Move on and there's something to rely on
And remember all from the first time

It's alright, just as long as it's the first time
It's alright, just as long as it's the first time
