i woke up in new york city from my sleep behind the wheel caught a train to Poughkeepsie and time stood still she wrote me a letter from san diego to qualify her luck these flights connect through arizona but i think i'll stay stuck so here i am

here i am
well i woke up in a car i traced away the fog
so i could see the mississippi on her knees i've never been so lost i've never felt so much at home please write my folks and throw away my keys
i woke up in a car

i met a girl who kept tattoos for homes that she had loved if i were her i'd paint my body until all my skin was gone she wrote me a letter as we passed through rockford she said she won't forget maybe i do maybe i don't but i know i haven't yet

and maybe i could live forever if not ever i had known that you'd be waiting here whenever i am all alone but here i am
